SAO Death's champions

Chapter 1 by Cameron Stonecipher

As I entered my house when the door slammed behind me a girl with bright red hair and red eyes jumped out from behind the corner with a poorly wrapped towel around her and the sound of a shower from down the hall.

"Did ya get it" the girl asked anxiously

"Calm down Rosie geez" I said "but to answer your question, yes I did, Sword Art Online is now ours."

"Let's start it up" she said excitedly "but I will get some clothes on" after she got dressed we logged on and unknowingly started on our adventure of death.when we entered Rose had pink hair and blue eyes,me I had black hair and red eyes. We started to hunt those level one boars. "Ugh fighting with a sword is hard" Rose said as she got knocked down by last boar in the area "It's not that hard once you get use to it" I said." How do you do it Ronan?" "you use your sword skills to kill it, see watch me. I charged at it with my shield in front of me I bashed it that caused it to be knocked back and then used kill move and sunk my sword through the animal's body. Right as I pulled out my sword then we heard the sound of a single bell as we heard this we were instantly teleported to the starter spawning zone with all the other

"Why are we back here?" I said as a red warning cursor popped up in the sky then hundreds you this is not a defect of the game, I repeat this not a defect this is how Sword Art online was designed to be"

"you have to be kidding me" I said

"You can't log yourselfs out of SAO and no one from the outside world will be able to shut down and or remove the Nerve Gear from your head" he said "If anyone attempts to do so a transmitter in the Nerve Gear will send a microwave signal into your skull destroying your brain, and ending your life"

"What!" Rose shouted as she turned to me with tears in her eyes

"despite my warnings" he continued "the families and friends of some of the players have attempting removing the nerve gear an unfortunate decision to say the least, as a result the game has 213 less players than when it began they have been deleted from both Aincrad and the real world"

"213, dead already" someone said in a shaky voice

I heard someone say in the distance

"This is BS I'm leaving" a couple seconds later I heard "hey I can't leave there is a invisible barrier

"As you can see, international media outlets have around the clock coverage of everything including the deaths. At this point it's safe to assume that the likelihood of a nerve gear being removed is minimal at best. I hope this brings you a little comfort as you try to clear the game." As he is talking, this little screens pop up around his body showing news station covering the deaths. "It's important that you remember the following: there is no way of reviving someone in the game if your HP drops to zero; Your avatar will be deleted from the system forever and the nerve gear will simultaneously destroy your brain" the reporter added.

"Get this off my head!" Rose screamed as she tried to take off the invisible Nerve Gear from her head Then Akihiko Kayaba continued "there is only one way for a player to escape now you must clear the game; right now you are gathered on the first floor the lowest level of Aincrad if you can get through the dungeon and defeat the boss you my advance to the next floor, defeat the boss on level 100 you will clear the game" he continued on but we just turned and looked at each other with terror and confusion bright aqua blue eyes and my jade dragon necklace" but how... Oh the calibration scan for the first time I put the nerve gear on" I thought as Akihiko Kayaba was talking so I could not hear him then he finished.

"This marks the end of the tutorial and the official launch of the Sword Art Online, players I wish you the best of luck" he said as he faded away back into the sky.

"Damn it," I shouted. Then I turned to Rose; she was staring at the ground mortified. I went over to her and she started crying.

"Does that mean we'll die?" she asked

"Not if we win" I said looking at where Kayaba had been.

"We should go to the next town over, the hunting grounds will be picked clean so we can get a head start from the other players. As we got to level five we were messaged about a meeting about the boss. When both of us got to where the meeting it was an amphitheater with a blue haired guy he introduced himself as Diavel and he said that we were the most powerful players and that there scouts located the boss room it's name is Illfang the Kobold Lord ,then told us what its weapons and told us to pick groups once we did he gave us assignments for what we are going to do during the boss fight I choose Rose to be in my group, then we saw a big guy with bright blue hair and no group he was looked around crazily then he looked at us and when he got to us he said "hi my username is Imperius but You can call me Sorin if you want to, and also can I join your group?" Diavel came around and inspected our avatars distributing out jobs. We. We're group D, Our job was when Kobold is at half health we move up and lower his to less than 10%, then Diavel would finish Kobold after we were finished getting our jobs I noticed two people in the back of the amphitheater one black haired and a orange hair girl with a hood in the back to me they seemed very suspicious. When we arrived at Kobold's room everything looked normal we entered

"Where is he?" Rose said looking from side to side jittery "what if I die?"

"I won't let that happen" I said making Rose look at me "if you need me just call" at that second some Eerie music came on and we could see a large jackal man with a huge sword on a giant throne with a staircase behind him. His eyes opened to show that they were glowing bright red. As he saw us he leaped out of his throne, and then a very loud scream was let out of him from get a grip" Sorin was yelling and shaking her suddenly Illfang was on top of them Sorin turned Reyes to draw his sword but it was too late so he crossed his arms to block the attack Illfang swung his sword and Sorin took the blow and he was launched into the wall and he made a crater in it, but he did not take any damage. He pulled himself out and looked at his hand and thought what is up with my hands he opened his skill menu and found a special ability "Hand to Hand combat prevent all damage that would be blocked by fists but if used in an attack it would deal a load of punishment" Sorin read outloud then looked up with a sinister smile on his face and ran into the fight again Ronan was standing in front of Rose fighting off all of Illfang's attacks Rose was still paralyzed with fear Sorin noticed that Ronan could not continue blocking I'llfang lifted his sword for one last attack to finish Ronan he swung the blade Ronan closed his eyes knowing death approached but then he heard a clang and then he opened his eyes to see Sorin gripping Illfang's sword "you just going to stand there or are you going to do something about it."

Chapter 2 by Sebastian Ramirez

Ronan was shocked as he saw Sorin holding the giant blade, but then he snapped into focus as he started slashing at Illfang while Sorin held his sword, allowing no attacks to pass him, but suddenly, Illfang let go of his sword and replaced it with another. Remembering that Diavel said this was a Talwar, you kept that information noted until you heard someone yell "THAT ISN'T A TALWAR!" you look over to see the Black-haired kid yelling the newly stated information, "aww crap" you thought as you took note of the new information. You saw waves of the other squads perish as they rushed regardless of the fact that the weapon was not as it was supposed to be. You saw the Black-haired kid and his hooded accomplice rush in, "NO! You'll be killed!" you yelled at the group as they charged, but they went on regardless of what you said. The group had a form of attack going, similar to your's. One would deflect the attack of the boss, the other would attack the boss when he was off guard, you saw the Black-haired kid get a final slash in as he jumped up and pulled his sword with him, finishing the boss.
